Fred was born in Philadelphia, USA, in 1964, and has lived all over the world including Spain, India, South Africa, the UK and Australia, where he worked on a cattle station in the Kimberley before starting work as a photographic assistant in 1988. He then worked on a variety of photographic projects including national and international museum installations, the World Expo '88 in Brisbane, and the Australian Pavilion at the World Expo '92 in Spain. Fred freelanced as a commercial photographer based in London from 1991 to 1997, worked pro- bono in India and South East Asia for two years in 1998/9, then lived in Bristol for three years between 2000 and 2002, completing a Master of Arts Degree in Documentary Photography at University College of Wales, Newport. His work is shot on 4x5 sheet film and follows two themes, time and identity, sometimes both in the same project. He has been based in Barcelona, Spain since 2003, where he also lectures in Photography at various universities.
